CHARLIE LONGSDON RACING

Brochure

"He has proved one of the best assistants I ever had. I frequently send him racing saddle out runners where he has sole responsibility for overseeing everything."
N J Henderson

with Oliver Sherwood and Nigel Twiston-Davis. Having gained a 2:2 at Oxford Brookes University, he spent the summer working on a game reserve and breaking youngsters in Kenya, before joining Kim Bailey in Lambourn.

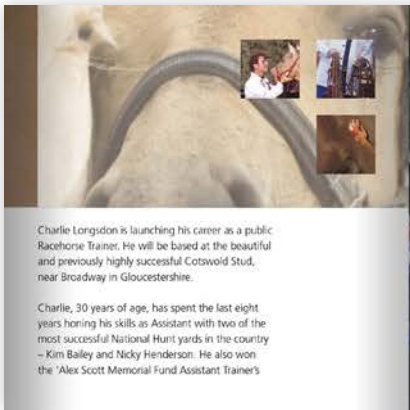

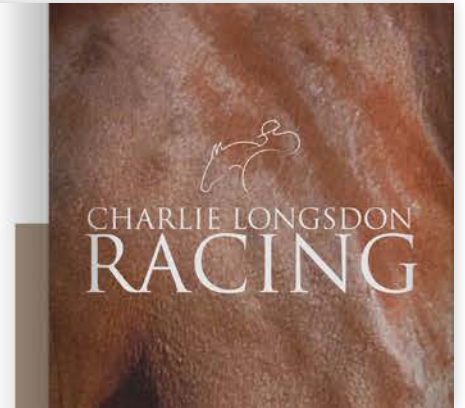

In the November of 1999, Charlie moved with Kim Bailey up to Northamptonshire, then in the summer of 2001, he returned back to Lambourn and joined Nicky Henderson at Sevenbarrows. In the last five years, he has played a leading role in the yard's success and being involved with multiple Grade 1 and Cheltenham festival winners such as Bacchanal, Marlborough and more recently Trabolgan. Even in his short time out in America, he had a very close involvement with subsequent Breeders Cup winners Ashado and Speightstown during their preparations in Saratoga prior to the Breeders Cup in Lone Star.

While with Henderson, Charlie has learnt how to deal with the day-to-day running of a large and extremely successful training operation. Any business with an excess of forty staff and 100 horses, requires a great amount of organisational skills and senior staff with strong leadership qualities.

After five years at Sevenbarrows, he understands the demands that lie ahead and has the leadership qualities to be a successful Racehorse Trainer.

"He has proved one of the best assistants I ever had. I frequently send him racing saddle out our runners where he has sole responsibility for overseeing everything."
N J Henderson

Charlie Longsdon is launching his career as a public Racehorse Trainer. He will be based at the beautiful and previously highly successful Cotswold Stud, near Broadway in Gloucestershire.

Charlie, 30 years of age, has spent the last eight years honing his skills as Assistant with two of the most successful National Hunt yards in the country – Kim Bailey and Nicky Henderson. He also won the 'Alex Scott Memorial Fund Assistant Trainer's Scholarship' in the Summer of 2004, which took him to the United States where he worked for the champion flat trainer – Todd Pletcher.

The step being taken by Charlie in the summer is the fulfilling of an ambition held from a very young age. Having grown up in the world of Eventing, he has successfully competed up to two* level. On his Gap-year and while at University, he spent short periods of time gaining valuable work experience

"He has a thorough knowledge of all aspects of equine health including anatomy, movement, blood supply, the digestive system and healing"

Ownership

Different types of ownership and not only reserved for the elite, but to suit all situations, be it partnerships, syndicates or sole ownership. There are options if you want to invest in horses.

Sole ownership: You will be sole owner of the horse and will be closely involved with any decision making relating to your horse. The costs however will be yours alone, as will the profits.

Syndication ownership: These can be of different sizes, many different types at various costs. This method is a very popular way for groups of friends or business partners to get involved in a horse's. A syndicate can choose their own name and design their own colours. Syndicates can be set up and run by a person, who would be responsible for things that would need attention and would be the direct contact with the trainer. Charlie has many different types of syndicates planned.

Leasing ownership: If you do not want to pay the full cost of purchasing a horse, lease agreements are available for certain time scales or even just one race. This eliminates the initial capital outlay but ensures the enjoyment and benefits of ownership.

1 PEOPLE BUY INTO THE LEADER BEFORE THEY BUY INTO THE VISION

—John C. Maxwell

My vision

Short-term
 "The most important objective is to become the best we can be operationally, in order to provide our customers and consultants with the best possible service."

Medium-term
 "We are making significant headway in redefining our organisational structure for the substantial future program we have in mind. Customer service has already improved dramatically. We have seen some exciting new product launch success with 100% 100% with no delay in progress the possibilities for consultants are unlimited."

10-15 years
 "I have been a focused five years of development and I am delighted that the vision set out seems more achievable than ever. I am fully confident that we will grow to be a £5 billion plus company with at least 5 different product lines in 15 or more countries."

Most important to me is that Euphony must become the best opportunity for independent network consultants in Europe. To achieve this goal we need at least 10 people existing before what our founders see as today?

Giles Redpath, Chief Executive Officer, Euphony Communications Ltd.
